The Art of Still Life Painting Master Class

Using the Sight-Size Method

Taught by Instructor Justin Hess

January 20-March 23, & March 30-June 1, 2012

Time: Fridays 11:00-4:30

Don't miss this opportunity to study at our New BACAA Studios located in San Carlos CA. We are 30 minutes south of beautiful San Francisco Bay Area.

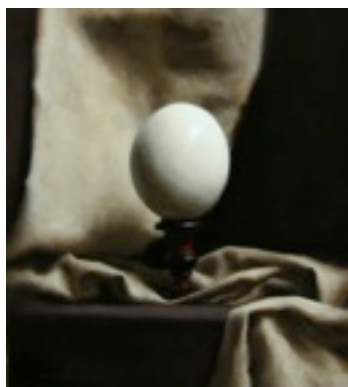

This technique follows traditional classical atelier setting. Students have the luxury to work in very close proximity to the model.

Come join us for an intensive 10-day still life painting class open to all levels of experience from beginning to advanced. We will cover the practice and procedure of still life painting based upon the timeless techniques of comparative measurements and the Sight-Size method. Students will learn to use this time-honored technique for drawing and painting naturalistically and with ease. During this workshop we will be working from life, developing preliminary sketches and color studies in preparation and leading towards the finished painting. Daily demonstrations will be given, along with discussions, lectures on composition, and personalized instruction based upon the individuals needs. The main objective of this class is to provide students with the tools and basic understanding so that they may continue to grow, while constantly challenging themselves as competent painters.

"To achieve success in painting it is necessary to thoroughly understand the craft, to be absolute master of the material, to draw correctly and with facility. It is well worth advocating the study of still life painting for the serious student, to prove its value in the search for beauty in arrangement, color, light, atmosphere and values. The simplest and most thorough way of acquiring all the knowledge of the craft of painting and drawing, the studying of inanimate objects, still life painting, the surest road to absolute mastery over all technical difficulties." Emil Carlsen, Instructor at the National Academy of Design "On Still-Life Painting" from Palette & Bench (pg. 6-8), Oct. 1908.

Justin Hess (b.1981) is an emerging artist whose education has taken him from his hometown of Ventura California, to the San Francisco Academy of Art University, and the Florence Academy of Art in Italy.

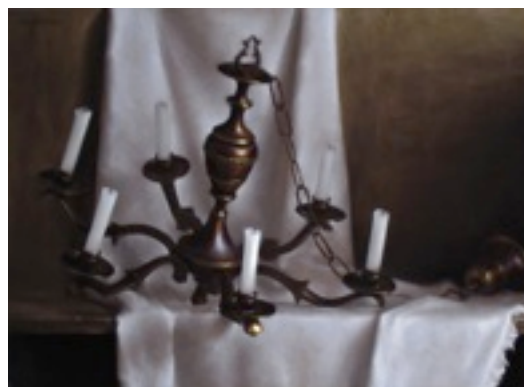

Justin has recently returned to us in San Francisco after having had an intensive 6 years of study and work in Florence Italy. Justin has not only taught and lectured on painting, but also on the preparation of paints and canvasses using traditional materials and techniques. The latter recently named Justin one of 21 artists under the age of 31 to collect now. Justin is the author of "Controlling the Creative Process, A Painter's Guide to Methods and Materials" that will be in print this fall, and offers step-by-step photographic demonstrations on the process of hand-making your own paint, canvasses and frames using traditional techniques. at the age of 30, Justin has already exhibited in Italy, London, Monaco, Norway and the United States of America.
